The purpose of this lesson is to practice observing planets in signs in specific markets and see if you can spot a correlation in

- 1) trends
- 2) culmination of primary cycle crests or troughs in certain signs, or sign types (qualities or elements)
- 3) reversals in price nearby to ingresses involving Venus or Mars

Study of Venus in Libra as it pertains to markets ruled by Venus, which include: Sugar, Copper, or Soybeans

Follow these steps:

1.) Choose one market of interest from the list given above.

2.) Identify the last 10 times that Venus was in Libra—when it ingressed into and out of Libra.

3.) See how frequently there was a change of trend within 3 trading days of each ingress date (into and out of Libra).

4.) Identify what types of cycles culminated with Venus in Libra.

5.) Can you spot a preponderance of trend— was it mostly bullish or bearish when Venus was in Libra?

6.) If bullish, when did the low tend to occur prior to Venus ingressing into Libra? What degree range coincided with the trough in Libra?

7.) If bearish, when did the crest tend to occur prior to Venus ingressing into Libra? What degree range coincided with the trough in Libra?

8.) Note any other observations from your study.
