

00:24:22 Rita Perea: @Danica, thanks for that clarifying question!

00:34:53 adam childs: So does that mean Oil could keep going up

00:37:37 MJ: 15

00:41:15 Eleonore Charrez: The same we did for course 1, but this time for primary cycles, isn't it?

00:41:43 Merriman Market Analyst: generally, yes, Eleonore, just without the % gains/loss this time

00:42:03 Eleonore Charrez: ah, ok, you don't want the % gains / losses ?

00:42:20 Merriman Market Analyst: my understanding is no, but we can double-check with Ray here in a second

00:42:27 Eleonore Charrez: thks

00:42:54 huifang boo: For Double bottoms, what is the acceptable time band for DB in a primary cycle?

00:44:12 Eleonore Charrez: which moving averages do you use? 50 an 200 ?

00:44:21 Merriman Market Analyst: MAs are half the cycle lengths

00:44:25 Eleonore Charrez: or would they be different for primary cycles ?

00:44:32 Merriman Market Analyst: different depending on primary cycle

00:44:39 Merriman Market Analyst: so for 18 week primary cycle we'd use 45 day MA

00:44:40 huifang boo: thanks

00:44:40 Eleonore Charrez: ok htks

00:46:35 Eleonore Charrez: so for 18W you'd use 90 and 45 days ?

00:47:33 Merriman Market Analyst: no just 45 day MA

00:47:40 Merriman Market Analyst: $18 \times 5 = 90 / 2 = 45$

00:47:42 Yating Hu: Can we use the same market for part 1 & 2?

00:47:52 Eleonore Charrez: so you don't check the crossing of MAs ?

00:48:02 Eleonore Charrez: just MAs as support resistance?

00:49:02 Merriman Market Analyst: Yes, Yating

00:49:10 adam childs: Sometimes I like to create a monthly or weekly hand chart is it ok to do the project in this manner. It helps me get a feel for a certain market

03:00:11 Wyatt Fellows: i was gonna ask ray about dow and a new primary versus the nas being late in its primary and how that rectifies itself
