RESEARCH ASSIGNMENT FOR COURSE 6

INTRODUCTION:

Mars is an important "trigger" planet in the study of astrology, and as well in market timing. It is especially important when major outer planet aspects are in effect too, and then transiting Mars "translates" that aspect to the other planet aspects.

For example, if Jupiter conjuncts Neptune, then a transit of Mars in a major aspect to Jupiter/Neptune will often coincide with a primary cycle crest or trough nearby (i.e., within 10 trading days or much less).

Also, transiting Mars in a sign that rules outer planets in aspect, to a commodity or stock sector pertaining to the sign Mars is in, can indicate a time of a major trend reversal in many markets, or a time when that commodity or stock sector related to a sign completes a primary or greater cycle nearby. For example, when Jupiter, Saturn, and Pluto were all in late Capricorn in February-March 2020, the absolute low in the stock market was when Mars also conjoined all three outer planets March 19-23.

ASSIGNMENT:

Identify which Mars signs have the highest correlation to primary or greater cycle troughs and crests in a market of your choice. Furthermore, determine whether there were major aspects from Mars to other planets within 10 trading days of these high or lows. In other words, I would like to see all primary cycle toughs and crests included in your control group, plus any other half-cycle lows or highs that represented a huge price swing during that year in your opinion.

Also, ascertain if certain correlations can be made between the market you are studying and the type of signs that tend to show up. For instance, was there a predominance of Mars in a certain element or quality at your highs? At your lows?

If you have the FAR program or another that can do a similar study as the FAR filtered Wave program with weighted values. This assignment can be done easier by the following steps:

1. Set a value for the filtered wave that would capture at least one high or low 4-6 times per year. That is about how often a primary cycle low or high will happen each year, deepening on the market. That is, there will be 2-3 primary cycle troughs and crest per year in each market other than currencies, which might only have two. Go for at least a 10% filtered wave to help sort this out (with bitcoin, at least 20%, but with currencies, probably only 6% or so).

2. Run ALL, TROUGH, And CREST frequencies and see which have the highest weighted values.
3. Then go back and look at those highs and lows in the filtered waves and see if you can identify periods of major aspects to outer planets within 10 trading days and see if this provides other insights.
4. Write your conclusions and make a projection for a future period when a high or low might happen accordingly.

Below you will see a sample of Crude Oil studies from FAR showing the importance of Mars transiting Sagittarius through Pisces.

HIGHS

Can you see the importance of Mars when it is in the last 4 signs? And Gemini (which is going to be a very long time this year because it is retrograding in Gemini). This is valuable info!
